

Useful websites for parents

Don't forget to look at the links for children and young people on the MKSCB website

If you are already worried that your children are suffering abuse and need help and advice from the police use the Click CEOP link:

<http://www.ceop.police.uk/Report-Abuse/>

These links take you straight to the help and advice centre. Make sure your children know about this. It allows them to report abuse directly to the police from their computer. CEOP is a police site, the letters stand for Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre

If you want to report criminal content on the internet use the Internet Watch Foundation link:

<http://www.iwf.org.uk/>

The Internet watch Foundation aims to minimise the availability of online criminal content, particularly child sexual abuse images. This website allows you to report criminal content on the internet. Reports are confidential and can be made anonymously.

Advice and guidance

	Web address	Website Contains
	http://www.kidsmart.org.uk/parents/	This site includes resources and advice and some very useful Top Tips The link takes you to the parents section, but there is an area for children and young people too.
	http://www.thinkuknow.co.uk/Parents/	Information, advice and guidance to help you keep your children safe on the internet. This site also comes from CEOP http://www.digizen.org/parents/	This site includes resources and on line safety games. Part of Childnet International http://www.childnet-int.org/kia/parents/cd/	A multimedia site full of information for parents, and areas for children and young people. This site includes movies and online safety games.
	http://www.bbc.co.uk/webwise/guides/c/children-and-social-networks	BBC Webwise is a good website for young people and adults. It covers all aspects of computer use. This link takes you to the section about keeping your children safe in social networking.
	http://www.nspcc.org.uk/help-and-advice/for-parents-and-carers/internet-safety/internet-safety_wdh72864.html	Internet safety advice for parents, and information on where to get help if you need it.