Introduction

1. Children in Milton Keynes should all be able to grow up in circumstances where they are safe and supported, so that they can enjoy their childhood and achieve their best as adults.
2. This document is designed to provide guidance to professionals when they encounter children who they believe may be in need or at risk of harm. The overarching intention is to have an effective system in place to ensure that children get the right response from the right service at the time they need it, at any point in the journey from early help to risk of harm.
3. To achieve this, agencies need to work together to promote children's welfare and prevent them from suffering harm. Children who are being or who are likely to be harmed are safeguarded best when safeguarding procedures are consistent. Safeguarding is the action we take to promote the welfare of children and protect them from harm and it is everyone's responsibility. Everyone who comes into contact with children and families has a role to play (Working Together 2015).
4. This document seeks to clarify levels of need and processes and the relationship between early help processes and child protection procedures. It is important that there are clear criteria for taking action and providing help across this full continuum. Having clear thresholds for action which are understood by all professionals, and applied consistently, should ensure that services are commissioned effectively and that the right help is given to the child at the right time (Working Together 2015).
5. Professionals in any agency who work with children and/or adults who have parenting responsibilities share a commitment to safeguard and promote the welfare of children. Everyone who works with children has a responsibility to make sure they are equipped with the appropriate level of knowledge and support to be able to judge when they need to seek further information about a child's circumstances or need to seek advice from a manager, their designated lead or another agency.
6. Most public services from the Police to the Health Service to the Council have to be more efficient. Provision designed to support children and families can only work effectively if limited resources are used wisely and targeted appropriately. It is the responsibility of all referring agencies, as far as is possible and reasonable, to ensure that children and families are not escalated unnecessarily into the higher, more resource intensive service areas. Where this does happen, systems become overloaded and children and families may be labelled as having more intractable problems than they really have, making solutions much more difficult.

Common Assessment Framework (CAF) in Milton Keynes

7. The Common Assessment Framework (known as CAF) is a nationally standardised approach to conducting an assessment of the needs of a child and deciding how these should be met. It is a simple assessment for use by professionals in all agencies to clarify concerns they may have about a child and it will help them to communicate and work more effectively together.

8. The Common Assessment Framework is based on the Framework for the Assessment of Children in Need and their Families (DoH 2000); this means that specialist assessments can easily build on the information gathered by a CAF. The CAF offers a basis for early identification of children's additional needs, for sharing of this information between organisations and for the co-ordination of service provision.
9. The CAF is designed for when there are concerns about how well a child is progressing in terms of their health, welfare, behaviour, progress in learning or any other aspect of their well-being and when the child's needs are unclear or broader than a single service can address.

Making a referral

10. Where it is considered that a child may have additional needs professionals should, with the consent of the child or parents or carers, undertake a CAF to assess these needs and to decide how best to support the child and family. Where this initial CAF identifies that additional support is needed beyond that provided through universal services, the family should be referred to the Milton Keynes Multi Agency Safeguarding Hub (MASH). To make this referral a copy of the Multi Agency Referral Form (MARF) should be completed and accompany the CAF. CAF and MARF forms can be found at www.milton-keynes.gov.uk
- 11. The CAF should not delay the process if a professional is concerned that a child is, or may be, at risk of significant harm. In such cases the professional must make a telephone referral directly to the MASH followed up with a completed MARF in an email. If a child or other person is at immediate risk of harm, the first response should always be to call the police on 999.
12. The completed CAF should be used as a basis for multi-agency or multi-disciplinary discussion and decision-making. The outcomes of such discussions may be that:
 - The concerns are unfounded
 - The child needs additional support and this can be met within a single agency
 - The child needs support from another agency, or several agencies
 - The child is referred for a more specialist assessment
13. The CAF will inform the plan that is put in place to support the child and family and will enable the Lead Professional to maintain a single record of the needs of the child and the progress being made. The person appointed as Lead Professional should not automatically be the professional who has completed the CAF. The Lead Professional should be the practitioner whose role is most relevant to the child's plan and who has the skills to carry out the specified functions. Where a family are to be supported by the Children and Families Practice (CFP), the Lead Professional will be the CFP worker.
14. In Milton Keynes we work to a model of intervention that sets out four levels of need. The tables on pages 8 to 16 are intended to provide a quick reference point for professionals. The lists are not exhaustive and few cases will straightforwardly fit into any one particular category.
15. If there is disagreement about the level of need for an individual child or family then it is expected that practitioners have a dialogue and explore the issues behind the disagreement in order to reach a consensus. Where disagreement remains practitioners should discuss their concerns with their manager or safeguarding leads within their own organisation.

16. Where there is doubt about the most appropriate service pathway to take, anyone concerned about the welfare of a child should consult with their own manager and/or designated member of staff and, where they remain unsure, contact the MASH on 01908 253169.

The Milton Keynes Effective Support 'Windscreen'

When children are not achieving all their outcomes the Common Assessment Form (CAF) can be used to assess and plan for the child's needs at Level 1 or 2.

To have a child's needs assessed to see if they have reached Level 3 or 4, complete a Multi Agency Referral Form (MARF) and send it to the MASH. A copy of the CAF will be needed to make a decision about what extra support might be needed, which could be support from the Children and Families Practice or children's social care.

If there is a need for a statutory assessment (called a Children and Families Assessment), the MASH will ensure one is undertaken. This could lead to a child being made subject to a child protection plan or being deemed a 'child in need' or in taken into the care of the local authority.

Sharing Information

17. Knowing when and how to share information is not always easy – but it is important to get it right. Children and their families need to feel reassured that their confidentiality is respected. In most cases you will only share information about them with their consent, but there may be circumstances when you need to override this. Whilst the law rightly seeks to preserve individuals' privacy and confidentiality, it should not be used (and was never intended) as a barrier to appropriate information sharing between professionals. The safety and welfare of children is of paramount importance and agencies may lawfully share confidential information about the child or the parent, without consent, if doing so is in the public interest. A public interest can arise in a wide range of circumstances, including the protection of a child from harm and the promotion of child welfare.

Referral to Children's Social Care (CSC)

18. The referral route to Children's Social Care is through the MASH – see paragraph 10 above. In urgent child protection situations where a child may be at risk of significant harm, in order to avoid delay, a telephone referral may be made in the first instance.
19. Some children are in need because they are suffering, or likely to suffer, significant harm. This includes child protection – see paragraph 31 below. The Children Act 1989 introduced the concept of significant harm as the threshold that justifies compulsory intervention in family life in the best interests of children and gives local authorities a duty to make enquiries to decide whether they should take action to safeguard or promote the welfare of a child who is suffering, or likely to suffer, significant harm.
20. There are no absolute criteria on which to rely when judging what constitutes significant harm. Consideration of the severity of ill-treatment may include the degree and extent of physical harm, the duration and frequency of abuse and neglect, the extent of premeditation, and the presence or degree of threat, coercion, sadism and bizarre or unusual elements. It is important to consider age and context - babies and young children are particularly vulnerable and at increased risk especially when there is parental history of domestic abuse, substance misuse and mental ill-health.
21. Therefore, significant harm could occur where there is a single event, such as a violent assault. More often, significant harm is identified when there have been a number of events which have compromised the child's physical and psychological wellbeing; for example, a child whose health and development suffers through neglect. Assessment of harm should be undertaken in the context of the child's age and vulnerability ('Harm' means ill-treatment or the impairment of health or development, including impairment suffered from seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another).
22. Detailed assessments are undertaken by Children's Social Care social workers to decide whether a child is suffering, or is likely to suffer, significant harm. If you are working with a family where an assessment is being undertaken, you will be required to share information to ensure that all relevant information is considered.
23. Professionals in all agencies have a responsibility to refer a child to Children's Social Care when it is believed or suspected that the child:

- Has suffered significant harm
 - Is likely to suffer significant harm
 - Has developmental and welfare needs which are likely only to be met through the provision of support services
24. New referrals and referrals on closed cases should be made to Milton Keynes MASH on 01908 253169. Unless there is immediate risk of significant harm, the family should be consulted by the referrer and informed of the referral. Referrals on open social care cases should be made to the allocated social worker for the case (or in their absence the manager or the duty social worker). The referrer can always ask to discuss their concerns with a qualified social worker.

Enquiries, contacts, notifications, referrals and assessment processes

25. All professionals working in any context with children are encouraged to contact the MASH if they have a concern or wish to talk an issue through with a social worker. This is referred to as a consultation. Anyone can ask to speak to a qualified social worker.
26. At the MASH, the person answering the phone is a trained (but not social work qualified) worker called a Customer Liaison Officer (CLO) who will respond to queries, give information and signpost to other more appropriate services. The MASH will respond in this way to all telephone enquiries concerning children at levels 1 and 2 of the windscreen, unless consultation with a qualified social worker is requested. The level of need tables in this document will be used as a guide.
27. At levels 3 and 4 of the windscreen a MASH manager will review the referral within one working day to decide a course of action. These may be passed back to the relevant practitioner to undertake further assessment, or held on the MASH duty desk to gather more information, allocated to a Children and Families Practice or accepted as a Social Care referral and allocated to a social worker.
28. Domestic abuse notifications from the Police are all triaged by the Police representatives in the MASH and additionally reviewed by the Probation representative. These reports are all passed to a MASH manager for a decision, as in paragraph 27 above.
29. When a referral is accepted by Children's Social Care, it will be allocated to a social worker and a Children and Families Assessment will be undertaken in most cases; this will include seeing the child alone (where age appropriate), meeting parents and discussing concerns and gathering information from all relevant professionals, in order to form a judgment about needs and risks and develop a plan or agree further actions to support the child. The outcome may be a Child in Need (Family Support) Plan; further assessment or support from a colleague from the Children and Families Practice or other agency to support the child/family; signposting to alternative advice and support; or no further action.
30. The assessment may lead to a Child In Need (Family Support) Plan or, if the situation is complex, further assessment may be required involving more detailed information from other agencies and detailed exploration into family background and dynamics and the needs of the children.
31. Whenever there are child protection concerns a section 47 enquiry is undertaken. This will involve liaison with police, health and other agencies and will include a strategy discussion, usually in the form of a meeting, to decide on and plan the actions needed. An assessment of the child's circumstances including risks and needs is undertaken following the strategy discussion. This may lead to a decision that there are no concerns, or to a voluntary Child In Need (Family Support) plan, or to some form of statutory intervention and/or to an Initial Child Protection Conference. If a Child Protection Conference is required, the target is that this happens within fifteen days of the strategy discussion.

32. Where a Child In Need (Family Support) Plan has not successfully improved parenting to protect children from significant harm, a strategy discussion is convened and a decision may be taken in consultation with the Child Protection Coordinator to proceed to a multi-agency Initial Child Protection Conference. If the conference agrees, a Child Protection Plan is put in place.
33. Should the circumstances of the child/young person not improve or where a serious incident occurs, a decision may be made to apply to the court for care proceedings. The first step in this process is usually to have a legal planning meeting and issue parents with a formal Public Law Outline letter stating what must improve in order to avoid care proceedings.
34. Once Children's Social Care and other specialist intervention has successfully reduced the level of need for the child or young person, earlier intervention services such as the CFP may be asked to continue to support the child and family.

Indicators of possible need

35. The detailed indicators of possible need in the tables in this document are intended to help practitioners to identify the level of need that a child may have and to help the family get the right support.
36. The indicators are divided into four levels, which match the four levels of need shown on the windscreen. Each level is divided into three domains:
 - Development of the baby, child or young person
 - Parents and carers
 - Family and environment
37. These correspond to the three domains which form the basis of the Department of Health Framework for Assessment 2000. Under each of the three domains are several headings which cover different aspects of the domain.
38. The indicators listed under each heading are an indication of the likely level of need. Only by talking to children and their family in more detail to explore the context and the factors behind the need, will the practitioner be able to form a judgement as to the level of support needed. The indicators are a guide and not a pre-determined level of response.
39. The indicator guide can be used before the assessment to help the practitioner to decide whether a CAF needs to be carried out, or to help them to agree the level of response after the CAF has been completed.
